

Lindsey Jackovich, CF-SLP

Lindsey Jackovich is a clinical fellow speech-language pathologist. She received her undergraduate degree in Communication Sciences and Disorders at Elmhurst College in Elmhurst, IL in May 2011. Lindsey received her graduate degree in Communicative Disorders at Northern Illinois University in DeKalb, IL in May 2013. She has experience with children exhibiting a variety of disorders including; receptive/expressive language, articulation/phonology, auditory processing, autism spectrum disorders, developmental delays, and stuttering. Lindsey currently lives in Beach Park, IL. She enjoys working with children, spending time with her family, friends, and fiancé, as well as fitness, music, and watching Chicago sports.